TODAVÍA ESTOY A TIEMPO

5 questions for when you feel behind

And one digital idea you may not have thought of yet.

FROM REFLECTION TO CREATION

01 REFLECT

02 DISCOVER

03 CREATE

FREE GUIDE · 5 REFLECTIONS + A DIGITAL IDEA

You don’t have to catch up to anyone.

Some days it seems everyone else has found their place. These pages aren't here to tell you everything is fine: they're a space to listen to yourself. First, look at your own path. Then, only if you're curious, explore something you might create from what you know or have experienced. It doesn't have to become a business.

QUESTION 01 / 05

Whose timeline is that?

When you say “I should have achieved this by now,” where did that expectation come from? You, your family, social media or an older version of yourself?

ONE EXPECTATION I MAY BE CARRYING WITHOUT CHOOSING IT IS...

A GENTLE REMINDER

There are no perfect answers here. Just space for you.

Your answers matter.

QUESTION 02 / 05

What part of your life are you overlooking?

If you stopped focusing only on what is missing, what quiet effort or brave decision would also deserve recognition?

SOMETHING I HAVE CARRIED, LEARNED OR MADE IT THROUGH IS...

QUESTION 03 / 05

What is asking for rest?

Where are you expecting yourself to keep going as though you aren't tired? Think of something you could make lighter.

ONE REAL WAY TO EASE THAT LOAD THIS WEEK WOULD BE...

In your time, your way.

QUESTION 04 / 05

What do you still want for yourself?

Think about something you want right now. Would you still choose it if nobody could see it or applaud it?

SOMETHING I KNOW I STILL WANT IS...

QUESTION 05 / 05

What would a kind next step look like?

Without changing your whole life, what 15-minute action could move you closer to something that matters to you this week?

MY 15-MINUTE NEXT STEP IS...

Could something you know help someone else?

Not everything you've experienced has to become content or a business. But maybe you have a skill, useful knowledge or a simple solution you could share.

A digital product can be small and practical: a checklist, a short guide, a calendar, a habit plan or a template. You create a file and deliver it digitally. Selling it still requires clear communication, proof that it helps and reaching the right people.

3 PRACTICAL EXAMPLES

01 Good at routines? → Beginner checklist.

02 Your favorite recipe → Short guide.

03 Love planning? → Simple mini planner.

One idea in ten minutes

You don’t need a store or a logo for this exercise. Start with one person, one small problem and one helpful solution.

01 Something I know how to do or enjoy teaching:

02 Someone I might be able to help:

03 One small problem I could help solve:

04 The simplest format (guide, checklist, planner, template):

ONE SMALL STEP · A FRESH START

Let AI help you shape the idea

AI can help organize your knowledge, suggest an outline and check whether your explanation is clear. It doesn't automatically know your audience or guarantee sales. Your experience and judgment still lead the way.

COPY THIS PROMPT

"I want to explore a digital product idea. I know how to [your skill]. I'd like to help [person] with [problem]. Suggest three small, realistic products. For each one, explain what it could include, what I should validate with real people and how I could build a simple first version. Don't invent results or income promises."

TRY IT WITH YOUR OWN IDEA

Start by naming who you want to help and what they need.

An idea deserves its own pace.

If one answer stayed with you, start there. If a digital idea appeared, you don't have to launch today. Write it down and ask someone if it could really help.

NO RUSH. JUST ONE REAL NEXT STEP.

01 Choose one answer that stood out.

02 Write down one simple possible solution.

03 Share it with one real person.

AN OPTIONAL CREATIVE TOOL

Content Lab helps plan posts, hooks, captions and calendars with its AI idea bank. It does not generate photos or complete digital products. It is optional.

Explore Content Lab

Listen to the podcast